

On the 17 Aug 2023, Heather duPlessis on NewstalkZB talked about how companies were in the Employment Relations Authority and the Employment Court for illegally dismissing staff for not being vaccinated.

Listen “senior” HR partner, I’ve run out of budget to assign all these personal grievance legal bills from your idiotic 2022 vax policy. And your $600 an hour external Counsel just told me that “breach of contract” claims have a 6 year time limit! Lady! I didn’t sign up for 6 fuckin’ years of this bullshit accounting!

May I remind you Mr CEO of Finance: we stalled them on the 90 day time limit, but you gotta keep hiding these buckets of legal bills in the company ledger somewhere with your creative accounting. Please. I gotta keep the legal bills for defending all these personal grievances on the DOWN LOW.

The company annual report is due end of August, DO YOU HEAR ME? And when the auditors show up, I’m lookin for a new fuckin’ job. I’m screwed. And the fuckin IRD won’t even let me have a category for “petty cash” anymore.
